Mrs. Ruth A. Hill Asks Re-Election

Mrs. Ruth A. Hill has announced her candidacy for re-election to the office of County Treasurer in the following statement:

I wish to take this means to announce my candidacy for re-election to the office of County Treasurer of Randall County, in which capacity I have served for the past seven years. I have served two two-year terms and am now serving in my third term.

I feel that I have done my best to serve you to the best of my ability in a courteous and efficient manner. I also wish to thank each of you for your support for the years that I have been in office, for I do so much appreciate it and I am grateful to you. Should I be re-elected, I shall continue to render you the same efficient service as in the past.

I hope to see each and every voter before the July primary election, but should I fail to see you, personally, before that time, I hope that you will consider this announcement an earnest solicitation of your vote.

HD Clubs Mean Associations, Better Homemaking Knowledge to Council

By ANNELLE DUGAN

If home demonstration clubs can be judged by what the members have gained from them, HD clubs mean closer association with others and a better knowledge of homemaking.

When the Randall County Home Demonstration Council members were installed, they were asked what they had gained from club work. Of the 18 persons interviewed personally, 12 mentioned the association and knowledge of others gained through club work as one of the main benefits.

Others mention cooking, sewing, interior decoration and serving others as the most valuable thing they had gained from HD work.

Eleven of this year's council have served before. Mrs. John Jennings, Mrs. Charles V. Conatser and Mrs. B. L. Hufnagle are serving their second consecutive year as council chairman, vice chairman and secretary-treasurer.

Others serving for at least a second term are Mrs. L. C. Robinson, Mrs. H. H. Staltenburg, Mrs. Earl Boydstun, Mrs. T. J. Bonds, Mrs. Orva Henry, Mrs. Ray Metcalf, Mrs. Dick Barrett and Mrs. Edd Reynolds.

Mrs. Jennings, who has been in home demonstration club work since 1932, is a member of the Pleasant View Home Demonstration Club. Her hobbies are reading and sewing and her grandchildren. Mrs. Jennings feels that club work is beneficial for women because of the fellowship in learning together and enjoying recreation together.

Also a member of the Pleasant View Club, Mrs. Hufnagle has gained a better understanding of the community, and has learned to meet and know people through her club. She has also gained an education in home economics. Her hobbies are sewing and oil painting.

Mrs. Conatser, who has served as a council member for four of her five years in Palo Duro-Rusk Club, says, "Oh, I've learned a lot from clubs — upholstery, getting along with others and a lot of different dishes." Her hobby is reading. Reading is also Mrs. Hodges' hobby. A member of the Pleasant View Club and county Texas Home Demonstration Association chairman, Mrs. Hodges feels that she has learned how to be a better homemaker herself and how to rear her children to be better

Canyon Church Shares in Will

The First Baptist Church in Canyon and two Canyon men were named minor beneficiaries of the estate of Florence McMurtry, former member of the WT faculty. Miss McMurtry died recently and the will was probated in Jessamine County Court in Nicholasville, Ky., on Jan. 4.

Sharing in a portion of the estate along with the Canyon church are Levi Cole and William C. Black. Black died in 1954 and it is presumed here his legacy will go to his estate.

Miss McMurtry's will allotted $200 per month for life to her brother, W. Goodloe McMurtry. All diamonds and diamond-set jewelry was left to a Texarkana, Ark., woman.

A Polish couple who live on Miss McMurtry's farm was left her car, choice of household furniture and a 37-acre tract of land in trust. The land is to go to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children at the end of the trust period.

The remainder of the estate is to be reduced to cash and split among several legatees, including those in Canyon. The Baptist church is to share one-eighth of the remainder with a Baptist church in Nicholasville. Cole and Black are to share one-sixteenth.

Miss McMurtry was on the WT faculty from 1926 until Sept. 1, 1945, and was an associate professor of intermediate education. She was supervisor of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades in the WT training school.

Miss McMurtry received her BA degree from Colorado State Teach-

Panel members will be Mrs. Mary Sligar, assistant professor of education at West Texas State College, the Rev. H. Doyle Ragle, pastor of the First Methodist Church, and the Rev. Strauss Atkinson, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Census Takers Ask Parent Aid

Parents of school-age children are being asked to contact the Canyon school tax office if their children have not been counted in the school census now underway.

Tax Collector Lee Foster said he or his enumerators have been to a number of homes in the district, but have been unable to find anyone at home. All school age children must be counted this month.

The count obtained in the census is used as the basis for state participation in district finances.

Conduct Services For Miss Reeves

Funeral services for Annie Reeves, sister of Rex Reeves, principal of Canyon Elementary School, will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. today in the First Baptist Church in Clarendon.

Miss Reeves, 60, died Tuesday in Big Spring where she had operated a motel for the past 18 months. Before moving to Big Spring, she lived in Clarendon for about 40 years.

She belonged to the Baptist Church, Order of Eastern Star and Business and Professional Women's Club.

In addition to her brother, survivors include an aunt, Mrs. Charlie McMurtry, Clarendon, and an uncle, Glad Snodgrass, Floydada.

St. Mary's Catholic Church at Umbarger celebrated National Family Communion Sunday with a congregation breakfast in the Parish Hall. A typical family, the Carl Kluskens family, sat together for the breakfast alongside Auxiliary Bishop John Morkovsky of the Diocese of Amarillo, and across the table from the Parish Priest, Father Andrew Marthalar. An estimated 250 attended the breakfast. Waiters were members of the Knights of Columbus, cooks were the ladies of the Knights of Columbus, and committee heads were Ben Koch, Catholic Activity; Sylvester Batenhorst, Council Activity; Carl Frische, lecturers committee; and Vincent Friemel, publicity committee.

A Union for Ministers?

News Item: Columbus, Ohio (AP)—A labor union official has urged ministers to organize their own union. The suggestion was made yesterday during the first national convention of the new United Church of Christ.

Orville Jones of Columbus, a former Congregational Christian minister and now director of education and research for the Ohio CIO Council, made the suggestion before the nearly 600 ministers and laymen attending the convocation on the problems of city churches.

"Ministers ought to have a union," Jones said. "They would gain more respect and it would provide some procedure for airing grievances."

Is this what we are coming to in America; a society that must be so tightly organized into minority groups, that an individual cannot exercise free will or take the initiative to better himself and his lot?

Has it become necessary for a minister to become a member of a minority organization in order to gain "respect?" Cannot a minister confer with lay leaders in his own church in order to straighten out "grievances?"

In the part of the country where we live, we don't think that is true. But has the heavily populated part of our nation drifted so far?

Surely this can't be true. If it is, why should we bother with arming ourselves to protect against Communism? Why should we bother with raising huge sums of money for charitable works? What will it avail us to raise our standard of living?

If our ministers are so insecure that they must have a union, how can they help us in our insecurity? Would their pledge to a union become a split allegiance?

Organize a union to "gain more respect." Gain the respect of mankind, if possible—yet risk losing the respect of the Lord.

Sure, organize a union. And when things don't go right, call a strike. Picket the church services. Maybe even have a "kneel-down" strike. Work up an agreement with the Teamsters Union and make the strike a nation-wide affair with secondary strikes and "hot cargo" clauses.

With ministerial pickets marching along the sidewalks in front of our churches maybe union members in the congregation would refuse to cross the picket line and forsake the assembling of themselves together.

We can't believe that it is necessary for the ministers of our churches to organize a union. We can't believe that such a union could serve either mankind or the Lord.

Our nation cannot be so depraved. If it is, we are doomed.

—Pay Your Poll Tax Now—

Time Grows Short

After today, only 16 days remain before the end of the period for paying poll taxes. Without a valid poll tax receipt, you can have no voice in our government for at least two years, because most of our officials will be elected to two year terms. Local officials will go into office for four years.

Don't let Jan. 31 slip up on you. Go by the tax office now and pay your poll tax. Get your receipt, or exemption if you qualify, and stand ready to register your desires when election time comes.

And on election day, don't forget to exercise your privilege. It is your right and duty, but you are out in the cold if you don't act this month.

Do Your Bit Saturday

Next Saturday morning, many of the FFA and 4-H Club boys of Randall County will be showing livestock they have fed in anticipation of the shows this winter.

Encourage them by stopping by the show. Judging will be underway all morning, and the sale will come in the afternoon. If you are in the position to do so, bid on some of the animals being sold. Your participation might make more difference than you will ever realize.

An Angry Man

Tuesday the U. S. Congress came together to talk, plan and try to regain the nation's fast disappearing leadership in the world. Amid all the worried legislators, one is conspicuous by his absence. He is an angry man. Any angry man.

There are no angry men left anywhere in this country any more, and we're the worse for it. Nobody gets riled up. Everybody is well-fed, well-worried, well-employed, smug and complacent. How can anybody in a nation of fat-cats get angry?

Evil has been defeated. Higher wages for shorter hours prevail. We have our social security, pensions, paid vacations, unlimited leisure, plentitude of gadgets, money to combat the upswing in disease among people who are sicker than at any period in their history. Only on television are there any bad men and good men, and only there can bad men be "headed off at the canyon."

The great issues of the time are with us, but we have no angry men to implement them. In most periods of crisis we have been fortunate enough to find at least one angry man to slash like a demon from hell through the sincerely complacent stagnation of the populace. Not yet in America at the beginning of 1958.

We have no angry voice to challenge this era of passiveness. Here and there some minister of the gospel addresses empty air from behind the Mexican border in a tone of anger, but the tone is a stage prop, more than likely, and his aim is economic security for himself. There is no Thomas Paine to fan the flames of revolution, stir the imagination of Americans toward human rights and national independence; no Tom Paine to strike fear into the hearts of dictators, both clerical and lay. Gone are the Robert Ingersolls, W. C. Branns, Voltaires and Victor Hugos whose anger stirred men to justifiable action. Nobody emulates Jesus, who in anger, whipped moneychangers from the temple. Stilled is the shrill voice of Teddy Roosevelt at San Juan Hill, and his angry table-pounding reverberates no longer from the White House. Upton Sinclair, an angry man, wrote "The Jungle" and "The Brass Check" to horrify the American people and bring about drastic revisions in the field of public health. Angry Man Sinclair Lewis broke up an era of complacency in America with his "Main Street" and "Babbit." Champ Clark and Bob LaFollette were the angry men in Congress at a critical era, but they too are gone from the scene.

The angry man is vanguard for reform and revolution. He is action and inspiration. He walks ahead of angels to point the way for the timid, the tired, the irresponsible majority who long more to be let alone than to exercise the armor of right.

Give us not in 1958 any more sober statesmen; status quo, departmentalized, thorough-channelized politicians; or pig-headed systemized and indoctrinated military generals whose responsibility is to their heirarchy and not to the people; or educators who educate to "get along and let's don't have any trouble."

Just give us for 1958, God, some thoroughly angry man.

What Our Neighbors Say . . .

Scissor Snippings

W. H. Graham in the Friona Star: Lilah Gaye Gee sent us the season's greetings in the form of an anecdote, which, we gather, is supposed to be funny to everybody but newspaper editors:

An editor had cause to admonish his son because of the lad's reluctance to attend school.

"You must go every day and learn to be a great scholar," said the fond father. "Otherwise you can never be an editor. What would you do, for instance, if your newspaper came out full of mistakes?"

"Father," was the reply, "I'd blame it on the printer."

And the father wept with joy because he knew he had a successor for the editorial chair.

Paul Crume in the Dallas Morning News: The other night Jerry Heffler was fixing his own supper at the family home in the 5900 block of Park Lane. He heard a loud crash outside.

Jerry, an A&M journalism student, sensed a chance to ply his trade. He rushed outside and found a woman in a wrecked automobile. It was raining, but he took time to take three good pictures. He also got the woman out of the car and got the whole story. Expectantly, he called a newspaper only to learn they weren't interested.

He also found himself standing there in a soggy, bedraggled suit. He found his supper burned.

After a life of newspapering, we'd say this sums it up: A wrong guess, a cleaning bill, and unsatisfactory meal but more fun than anything else man does for a living.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

Jerome Martin, former city commissioner of Fort Worth, was for many years with the telegraph company. He began as a messenger boy and the incident he recalls most vividly was delivering a telegram addressed to William Jennings Bryan.

The "peerless leader" was visiting in the home of a friend in Fort Worth and the host offered to sign for the message and deliver it to Mr. Bryan but the lad said he would like to hand the wire to Bryan himself. So young Martin entered the library and delivered the telegram to the famous Democratic leader. Bryan ran his hand in his pocket but the boy said, "I don't want a tip; I just wanted to meet you." Bryan asked his name and shook hands.

A little incident, perhaps, but one that Martin has treasured through the years. There never was a man quite like the "Great Commoner," in the Texan's opinion.

He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it; who has looked for the best in others and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration; whose memory is a benediction. —Mrs. A. J. Stanley

When Sir Walter Scott was a little fellow, he wandered away from home. A search began and the future poet and novelist was found on a mountain-side while a thunder-storm raged. Was he frightened? Hardly. At each flash of lightning, the boy exclaimed, "Bonnie! Bonnie!"

January is poll tax month.

Officially, poll tax sales begin in October. But nobody pays too much attention.

However, after the first of the year, organized drives get under way, in a deadline-month appeal to induce citizens to protect their right to vote by payment of the poll tax.

But a good percentage of potential voters ignore it all. Many, jolted at the last minute, flood into courthouses after knocking off work Jan. 31. Penalty for the putter-offers is usually a long wait in line. Many more never get there at all. Texas Almanac reports show that in past non-presidential election years, less than half the potential voters paid poll taxes or secured exemptions.

Poll tax costs $1.75 and usually may be secured at several different places in every community. No charge for 21-year-olds getting their first vote and those 60 years and over, but an exemption certificate must be obtained. (Persons living outside cities of 10,000 or more may vote on affidavit without an exemption certificate.)

Deadline for poll tax payment is midnight, Jan. 31.

Safety Program Pays Off

Texas traffic deaths fell below the Department of Public Safety prediction for the Christmas-New Year holiday period, as a result of the concerted efforts of the Governor's Safety Program.

DPS predicted that 113 persons would die on Texas highways. Final number probably will be 103.

Both Governor Daniel and DPS Director Homer Garrison Jr. had high praise for Texas citizens, law enforcement officers and news media, for the success of the program. "Much of the credit should go to the newspapers, radio and TV which played a major role in aiding law enforcement and focusing public attention on the increased driving hazards of the holiday season," Garrison stated.

And Governor Daniel stressed that one of the chief aims of his administration during 1958 will be "to reduce our traffic deaths and injuries even farther below the 1956 record. It can be done . . . this is best illustrated by the results of our efforts during the past holiday season when the nation's death total increased but the Texas total decreased."

If the DPS figure of 103 proves accurate, it will be the lowest since 1952 when 98 persons were killed in the holiday traffic crush.

Twice As Much Water

New State Water Development Board has set up shop with the aim of doubling Texas' water stor- the program will bring the state an additional $600,000,000 in conservation projects — without cost to state tax payers.

Board is authorized to raise $100,000,000 by selling bonds at four per cent interest -- and another $100,000,000 later, on say-so of Legislature. This money can be lent at five per cent interest to help pay up to one-third of cost of local conservation projects.

"I firmly believe the program will be self-liquidating," said Board Vice-Chairman W. E. (Buck) Tinsley of Austin.

Board hired Joe Carter as its $10,000-a-year executive secretary. Carter was legal counsel to the State Board of Water Engineers until animosity from two board members forced his resignation last spring.

After that, Carter served on Gov. Price Daniel's staff, assisting with water legislation drafting. He is a former state senator from Sherman.

Breather for Schools

Some 600 still-segregated school districts in Texas are more relaxed now. Many had feared that court-enforced integration in Texas would begin this winter in Dallas.

Federal Judge A. T. Atwell of Dallas ruled last year that Dallas schools must integrate at mid-term (January, 1958). But a higher court (U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans) overruled. It said Dallas school officials should be given "a reasonable further opportunity" to plan for integration.

Decision leaves intact, for the time being, a state law passed last spring designed to delay segregation. It prohibits school districts from integrating unless instructed to do so in a local election. Integration without a voter mandate would bring loss of state aid.

For Dallas, this would have meant $1,500,000 a year.

Unwanted "Eggs"

Estate Life Insurance Co. of Amarillo is asking the state to take back some "rotten eggs" it bought at a bankruptcy sale.

Last summer Estate took over some $11,000,000 worth of policies that had belonged to Physicians Life Insurance Co. Physicians had gone broke, and its affairs were being settled by the state liquidator.

Estate's attorney charged at an Insurance Board hearing that the contract arranged by State Liquidator J. D. Wheeler was unfair to Estate. Same batch of business (mostly burial policies on older people) has passed through three companies—Southern Bankers, American Atlas and Physicians. It bankrupted all three, said the Estate attorney, who called the business "a bunch of rotten eggs."

State Insurance Department officials charge that Estate presented a false statement of assets when it entered into the contract. Insurance Board forced the resignation of Estate's president, John L. McCarty, after it was revealed McCarty had given a State Insurance Department employee $2,000.

Short Snorts

Creation of an administrative office for the state's judicial system is urged by State Supreme Court Associate Justice Ruel Walker. An administrative director, he says, could help in more efficient assigning of pending court business and equalizing of trial loads.

Texas Rangers are now under the direct authority of Public Safety Director Homer Garrison Jr. Transfer from regional commanders was announced by the Public Safety Commission. Change to a single command was said essential to efficiency.

Present state land office employees will keep their jobs under new Land Commissioner Bill Allcorn when he takes office Feb. 1, he has announced. Allcorn said he will move his family to Austin but would not say whether he will run for election to the post. He was named by Governor Daniel to succeed Earl Rudder who has resigned to take an administrative job at Texas A&M.

February Made History Month

February has been designated American History Month in Texas by Gov. Price Daniel in an official memorandum.

"The understanding of American History reflects the strength of our people, promotes better citizenship, and give us a sound foundation upon which to base current decisions.

"The Daughters of the American Revolution and other organizations plan programs each year during the month of February to stimulate interest in our National history. These are worthwhile endeavors that deserve the support of all Americans."

Florence Marie Coffee will leave Friday for a year's study at the University of Sydney in Australia as a Rotary International Foundation Fellow.

Miss Coffee, a University of Texas and Duke University graduate, was awarded the fellowship last spring, and was the first student from the Panhandle area to win a scholarship from Rotary since the foundation program was started ten years ago.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Coffee of Canyon, Miss Coffee attended West Texas State College before transferring to the University of Texas. She earned her B.A. degree with honors and was named to Phi Beta Kappa.

Miss Coffee was awarded the M.A. in political science at Duke University in 1957. She will study political science at the University of Sydney.

The Rotary fellow will travel the long way around the world, leaving by air from New York City. She will stop over for visiting in England, France, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, Greece, Egypt, Pakistan, India, Ceylon, Malaya and Indonesia. She will be the guest of Rotarians in many of these nations.

Honor Canyon Artist by Show

Paintings and hand weaving by Isabel Robinson, associate professor of art at West Texas State College, will be exhibited for two weeks, opening Sunday, in the college library.

The show is sponsored by the Canyon Music Arts Club, which will honor Miss Robinson at a "preview-reception" Sunday from 3 until 5 p. m. in the library. Mrs. Royal Brantley, president of the club, and Mrs. Emilio Caballero, will preside at the coffee table.

To be hung for display will be 44 of Miss Robinson's paintings, of which ten are oils and the remainder are water colors. They include landscapes, portraits, abstracts and still life. Her landscapes were done throughout the nation and Alaska.

Miss Robinson's exhibit will also include a small number of her weaving pieces, including a wool coverlet in traditional pattern, and original designs in rugs, a stole, composed of spun glass thread and metallic silver. She will also show samples of wool suiting, drapery and upholstery materials and place mats from such materials as yucca and pine needles.

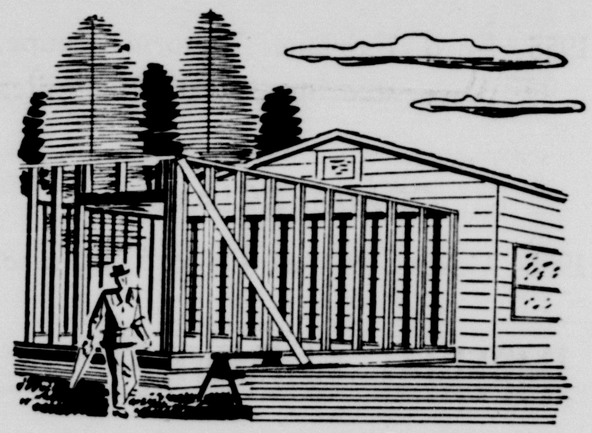

The exhibit will remain on display through Jan. 31, and the public is invited.

By VERN SANFORD

Those of us who fish for sport often overlook the importance of our commercial fisheries.

In fact, we bitterly resent some of the tactics of commercial fishermen.

It must be remembered, however, there are millions who do not fish who can only have fish by buying them.

The Bureau of Commercial Fisheries of the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service, has established four new regional offices and a new southern California program office. The purpose of these new regional offices will be to implement the expanded commercial fishery program.

Texas is very much interested in any advancement of the commercial fishery industry. Waters of the Gulf of Mexico are worked daily, particularly by shrimpers.

Some protective legislation has been passed to keep commercial netting out of Laguna Madre, and to control shrimping and oyster gathering in other Gulf areas. This is very necessary to protect this wildlife resource. The Texas Game & Fish Commission has a marine laboratory at Rockport, and sub-offices at other places along the Texas coast where daily studies are made. These offices work very closely with the Fish & Wildlife Service in protecting our supply of marine fish. They are important both to commercial and sport fishing.

Weed Control — Good and Bad

For those who live in the coastal areas it might be well to keep in mind this spring that some weed control can be harmful to wildlife.

The Game and Fish Commission recently complete purchase of additional marsh land in the Beaumont-Port Arthur area to provide refuge for water fowl. Careful studies are being made of seed-producing weeds that ducks and geese like to feed on. Biologists directing this program have had long experience and training in providing such foods. You might want to contact them about some of your acreage.

Also a rather intensive weed control program now is under way by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife and the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service. The purpose is to find ways of eliminating undesirable marsh plants and to substitute plants which will produce food for migratory waterfowl.

One phase of this project is the testing of various herbicides to find which will eliminate noxious weeds without injuring wildlife values. Your county agricultural agent also can be most helpful in this work.

For Spin Fishing Enthusiasts

Spin fishermen always have had the problem of knowing just how much line to play out when they hook a big one. Now comes the B. F. Gladding Co., with a color-metered Platyl line that indicates at a glance. With each package of line there is a rod decal corresponding to 10-yard markings. This will prove a popular feature.

Speaking of spin fishing, it's getting light enough now to put in a few minutes dry casting in your back yard each evening when you get home from work.

Get a casting practice plug or remove the hooks from a spin size plug. Set up a marker; an old bicycle tire is excellent. Then practice for accuracy.

The beginner has little trouble getting distance with spinning equipment. Many times, however, accuracy is impaired because your spinning rod is longer than the average bait casting rod. It also has a lighter action, requiring only a flick of the wrist.

With a little practice for a few evenings you'll find you can hit the target every time. Accuracy in casting is very important if you are fishing in good bass water, which has plenty of stumps, rocks and tree tops. A lot of time can be wasted freeing lures that hang on overhanging branches. However, it is a well known fact that big bass usually are found in some of these difficult spots.

Incidentally, this backyard practice is good for the whole family. Take a couple of Junior's old bicycle tires. Set up your casting distance and then start to work. Do it systematically and properly, however, don't just go out for a few hit or miss licks. This practice will pay off well before the season is over.

Of course on Sunday afternoons you might put on a real lure and stand on the lake bank. It's fun to catch a bass when you are just practicing.

Gun Digest Expanded

If you haven't seen a copy of the new 1958 edition of the Gun Digest, better look it over. The book has been greatly expanded this year to cover both new and modern arms and ammunition. It has information on ballistics, scopes, choke devices, loading tools, metallic sights, and custom and foreign guns.

It also contains many interesting how-to-articles by noted writers. So it furnishes mighty good reading, as well as ready information.

New Stamps

A black and white wash drawing of Canada geese feeding in a cornfield has been chosen as a design for the 1958-59 migratory bird hunting stamp. Leslie C. Kouba, a Minneapolis artist, was the designer. This will be the 25th stamp issued in the Federal duck stamp series. This stamp is required of all persons who hunt migratory waterfowls.

Speaking of stamps, have you bought any of those whooping crane stamps? First sale of thees stamps began at Corpus Christi recently. Corpus is only a short distance from the Aransas Wildlife Refuge at Austwell, where 31 of these whoopers wintered.

The stamps are beautiful and effective reminders that there are so few of these beautiful birds in existence.

16 More Volumes Added to Library

Sixteen new books have been added to the Randall County Public Library, according to Mrs. Chester Pierle, librarian.

Six of the new books are classified as adult books while the remainder are children books.

Adult books are Paul by Goodspeed, The Unforgiven by Le May; The Gentleman from Indiana—a collection of writings of Tarkington, Greek Myths by Graves, Adobe Walls Bride by McCarty, and Why the Chisholm Trail Forks by Adams.

Juvenile books now on the shelves are Favorite Poems, compiled by Ferris; The Runaway by Clewes; How the Grinch Stole Christmas by Seuss; In This Corner by Stoutenburg; Happy Birthday, Dear Beany by Weber; His Kingdom for a Horse by Blassingame; The Bound Girl by Denker; Rusty's Space Ship by Lampman; The Mouse House by Godden; and Let's Read a Story, a collection of children's stories, by Gruenberg.

Highland HD Club Meets Wednesday

The Highland Home Demonstration Club met Wednesday, Jan. 8, at the home of Mrs. Jas. Lamb.

The by-laws of the club were read, revised, and adopted at the business session. Mrs. Roy Lamb, council delegate, gave the council report.

Six members and one guest were present. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Earl Boydstun Jan. 22.

Variety Ring Meets With Mrs. Johnson

The Variety Ring met in the home of Mrs. Mae Johnson Jan. 3.

After answering roll call with a resolution that had been broken, club members spent the afternoon doing hand work.

The house was decorated with holiday decorations.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. Lang Hunter, Mrs. Leonard Winters, and Mrs. L. R. Blair, all guests, and to nine members.

Dugan Boy Burned In Home Accident

Billy Earl Dugan, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dugan, was burned Friday afternoon at his home southeast of town when his gasoline soaked clothes ignited from burning weeds.

Suffering from burns over both legs and his right hand, the youngster is recovering at home.

Billy and his six-year-old sister, Donna Ruth, were playing in the yard while the parents and the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Long, were in the farm house. The boy went to the gasoline tank and poured some gasoline in a leaky can, which allowed gasoline to run down the front of the boy's levis.

The pants ignited as the boy passed the spot where his father had burned weeds earlier in the afternoon. Screams from the two children attracted the adults, who smothered the burning clothes with an old coat.

The boy was taken to the family physician in Canyon.

Mr. and Mrs. Dugan have one other child. Glenda Faye.

Billy is also the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Clem Dugan.

Smile Week Observed by CHS Students

Wear a Smile

There is something in a handshake and a smile that is different from most other experiences. It seems odd when you get right down to it, that when you meet someone you stand there face to face clasped shaking each other's hand up and down. But the idea behind it, the feeling of warmth and the feeling of understanding that comes from it is the thing that makes it such a precious moment.

A smile is the same way. While being only a muscular movement of the face, a smile has come to be associated with gladness and warmth and understanding. Perhaps no other muscle, unless it is the tongue, can express such joyous feeling and friendly attitudes as a simple smile.

Have you ever been angry and vexed with yourself or with someone else or over a problem? If you would have stopped and looked for the humor in the situation and have seen how in the back of your mind you had been exaggerating your troubles you would have smiled and soon broken down and laughed out loud which would have created in you a wonderful feeling.

If you had done this others would have at first thought you had "flipped your lid." But soon they would join you since a laugh is so contagious. Then tension would ease putting you in better spirits to work out your problems from an optimistic viewpoint.

To see some people would make you think that they know smiles are canankerous and so they had, in fear of spreading the disease, quarantined or isolated themselves from it.

This is the kind of a person which you pass in the hall and you cast an understanding smile at them but they just give you a cold stare with a hard and cranky look upon their face. Sort of makes you feel uneasy and almost makes you shiver at the thought.

People nowadays are in such a hustle and a bustle that few seem to find time for humor in their daily lives. A smile helps. Ever notice how a smile always precedes a laugh and that laughs are contagious, not only to others but to yourself, also?

For example,almost everybody at one time or another had been with someone or had been in a crowd where one person said something funny. The whole idea was just absolutely absurd so you began to laugh. Pretty soon someone else caught the mood and laughed and soon everybody laughed heartily.

Then, you get to laughing and you can't stop and you laugh on and on until finally when you do stop you have almost forgotten what you were laughing about in the first place.

After such an experience one realizes the happiness and joy that is his for the taking and how much more zest can be added to your life if you don't worry so much and be a more jolly person. It is surprising how far a smile can go to give a person more life. As someone aptly put it, "You've got to live life to have life and you've got to have life to love life."

Scientifically it is a lot easier and it takes fewer muscles to smile than to frown. A smile may also express many emotions such as understanding, forgiveness, satisfaction, sympathy, gratitude, accomplishment, humor, joy and happiness.

Remember, a smile cost so little yet does so much so "Let a smile be your umbrella" on a rainy day.

Eddie Boydstun, vice-president of the Student-Faculty Congress, smiles as he places the gold crowns lettered with "Smile" upon the heads of Carolyn Glanton and Richard Burgess, "Smile Queen and King of Canyon High School" during the assembly program in the auditorium. Carolyn was also presented a tube of toothpaste, and Richard received a false teeth holder for his newly acquired choppers. He lost some of his original teeth in football practice.

Select Smile King, Queen

Bright gold crowns lettered with "Smile" were placed on the heads of Carolyn Glanton and Richard Burgess, Smile Queen and King of CHS, by Eddie Boydstun, SFC vice-president, as a part of Smile Week celebration January 6-10. Carolyn was presented with a tube of toothpaste, and Richard received a false teeth holder for his newly acquired choppers. He lost some of his original teeth in football practice.

Smiling candidates were on the stage to watch the procedure. The following, besides the king and queen, were nominated: Joe Triplett, Lynda Burkett, Wilma Burkett, Janet Taylor, Candy Throckmorton and Eddie Boydstun.

Bob Wear gave challenging "Personality Pointers." He told how we all have a four-in-one personality: what we really are, what we think we are, what others think we are, and what we think that others think we are.

What we cannot change we must accept, but there are things we can do to improve our personality.

There are steps in personality improvement: 1. realization of the need, 2. motivation or desire to improve, 3. inventory of weak and strong points, 4. doing the best to weaken the weak and strengthen the strong ones, 5. setting plans for improvement and following through with them. We are on the way to a better personality if we think of and help others.

The student body sang two songs, "Smile, Smile" and "Smiles" to get in the mood of smiling.

Students seemed to have remembered that if at first you do not succeed, smile, smile again. There were friendly greetings and not as many droopy faces. Someone would start griping and then be ribbed with, "Remember this is Smile Week."

The SFC sponsored the campaign for more and bigger smiles. Members put signs up of "Aw, come on now, smile!" and "Yes, you, smile." To remind students to turn on the old "grinner."

A member of SFC gave a prep talk or poem each morning over the intercom. They explained it was a week for courtesy as well as smiling, and how smiling helps one to feel better when everything seems to be going wrong. Those participating were Dana Wilbanks, Sue Fain, Roy Harris, Margaret Johnson and Lloyd Mann, school chaplain.

First Semester Dresses Finished

Cut! Cut! Cut! Sew! Sew! Sew! The Homemaking II class was busy as little bees the last semester making dresses for themselves.

All garments have been completed and all 21 girls are enjoying sitting back and admiring their handiwork.

The dresses were made of material from cotton or wool, and all the in-betweens.

Better construction, how to fit a garment, and how to work more independently were the goals they strived for.

Each girl was responsible for selecting her own material and pattern. The only qualification needed when buying a pattern is that it have a skirt and blouse which joined at the waist, but other than that the entire choice was left to the individual.

Mrs. Suzanne Tatman, homemaking instructor, offered helpful hints and suggestions when needed and gave a word of encouragement when some seam had to be resewed or a zipper just wouldn't look right.

The dresses are now on display in the homemaking showcase.

Seniors Rate High In National Tests

"CHS senior's who took the Qualification tests rated well," said Mr. J. E. Miller, principal of Canyon High School. The tests were taken October 22, 1957.

Every year the College Entrance Examination Board which is administered by the Educational Testing Service sends out the test. These tests are known as Qualification Tests and seniors all over the United States may take them.

The students who took the crucible are as follows: Barbara Brown, Betsy Callarman, Louise Higdon, Mike Wheeler, John Robert Wheelock, Lloyd Mann, Joy Rose, Mary Marshall and Mary Whealy.

In order to win a scholarship the person would have to rank in the upper one-third of the one percent of all the students taking the tests over the United States and there were 255,817 who took it. CHS seniors scored in the upper 14 per cent to the upper 45 per cent on the test based on the national average.

Juniors Are First With Class Party

Purple and white streamers with multi-colored balloons were used to decorate the high school cafeteria for the first class party of the new year. The junior class held their party January 11.

A full evening of entertainment was planned for those attending. A large assortment of games were used. The students enjoyed ping pong in addition to dancing.

The decorations committee, composed of J. W. Simms, Jimmy Brasher, Jimmy Lou Hiltbrunner, Suzanne Lemons and Jeanne Whinnery, decorated the cafeteria. Barbara Lindsey, Melba Haile, Eddie Boydstun and Ann Jarrett prepared the games. Refreshments were prepared by the room parents.

Mr. Schuette and Mrs. Knott are class sponsors.

Mr. Miller Says:

Second Semester Is Second, Last Chance to Accomplish Best in Work

The first thing boys and girls need to learn when they start to school is the art of being wise in time. Former President Roosevelt said, "Nine-tenths of wisdom is in being wise in time." He meant by that that much of the value of finding the right course to follow is lost if we do not discover the right way soon enough.

It is easy for us to see our mistakes after we have suffered from them. The really wise person is the one who discovers the right way to go while there is still time for the journey.

This is indeed true of pupils who are attending school. Before a school term is over each one should come to realize the value of doing his work well day after day.

But this realization will do one little good if it comes after a large part of the last semester has been wasted. It will be too late then to do the type of work one should be doing, because he has not made preparation from day to day as he should have done.

Sometimes students drift along from week to week and from term to term without understanding how much it may mean to them to acquire the habit of mastering their work. They may hope some day to be leaders, but they do not become leaders while they are in school because they are not willing to put forth the effort necessary to be a leader.

After a while, when their school days are over, they perhaps will see how important it is to lay a sound foundation for the work one is to do. But if they do come to this realization they will have to overcome the handicap of wasted years.

There are many students who early in their school life see the importance of doing their work well. They know that even while they are in school they are building habits of living and that these habits are likely to stay with them throughout a lifetime, so each day they do their work well. Many of these students become leaders in at least one class.

They gain the respect of their teachers and classmates by putting forth effort to master their work. The pupil who does his very best, from the beginning of school to the last day of school, is the wise pupil.

We hope that each boy and each girl enrolled in our high school will determine to take advantage of the golden opportunities which are theirs from the beginning of the second semester, and that each one will lay a solid foundation upon which to build a good life.

Eagle Views

Playing a lot of close games which could have gone either way, the Canyon Eagles have compiled an impressive record for the season thus far.

Happy was the victim of such a game last week, losing in the final seconds of the game 60-59. ton sank three free throws in the Dory Funk and Larry Brotherfinal 20 seconds of the game. Funk hit one out of two attempts and Brotherton made two for two to put the Eagles in the lead. In the final five seconds Happy managed a field goal but couldn't win the game. Leonard Miller dumped in 17 points to lead the scoring. Pruett scored 15 points and Sonny Pitt 14. Pitthas madea fine showing this season, being the only sophomore on the team.

Another close one occurred during the Panhandle Tourney. Canyon was playing Panhandle and Panhandle led as the final buzzer sounded. However, Dory Funk was fouled just as the buzzer sounded, which gave him two free throws. Missing on the first Funk tossed in the second free throw to tie up the game and force it into over time. At the end of the first overtime the game was still deadlocked forcing the game into another overtime. Panhandle finally won the game 62-60. A.L. Pruett scored 21 points to lead the scoring while Leonard Miller was second with 18.

Miller scored 21 points to lead the Eagles against Stinnett in the second game of the Panhandle Tourney with Stinnett winning by a score of 65-52.

Martian on Earth

How do you do? I am a Martian. My name is Majro Lee Orjam but my friends call me "Maro." I come from Malu High School, Olgtool, Mars.

Now that you know where I come from I suppose you would like to know why I am on earth. I am here to get an interview with two students from a typical American high school. I am in high school and my editor assigned me an editorial to write on some down-to-earth views on education. So where was I to go . . . but to Earth.

Now that you know why I am here let us get on with the interview. Because I prefer not to call those interviewed by name I will call them X and Y.

What is your classification?

"We are both seniors this year."

"Tell me, why is everyone hurrying and scurrying?"

"Semester tests are coming up this week."

"I see, now tell me, what to you is the importnace of finishing your education?

"The main reason I want a good education is that I do want to lead a very useful life. That I will be able to take part in problems that arise not only in my state but in my nation. Another thing is that I plan to be a lawyer, and I know that the time will arise that I will have to be able to influence people and I want to be able to do that the right way.

"Now that X has finished Y will you tell me the value of staying in school?" "Of course, I think I will use myself to illustrate the value of remaining in school. I want to travel and when I go to a far land where the language is different, customs, and traditions, I want to know about those countries and their life and then I know I will feel at home there. So you can see what completing school means to me."

"Very good, now even on Mars we worry about money. What about the financial side of education?

"Education does cost but so does most things that is worth working for. Almost any advancement in education will give to you a good return for the money you put in."

"Good-By and thank you. It is time for me to blast off for home, 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2—1——0.."

Nobody ever gets anything for nothing, but a lot of people keep trying.

New Devotions Are Slated Soon

Student devotions, a new SFC and CCYC project, will be started Monday, Jan. 20. The meetings, to be held in addition to the Wednesday devotions, will meet in the auditorium each Monday from 8:20 to 8:40.

Co-sponsored by the CCYC and SFC, the devotions are planned to supplement and not replace the Wednesday morning devotions. The period will be spent in singing, and a short inspirational message will be given by a student or a local minister.

The devotions are still in the planning stage. The success of the effort will depend upon the support, through attendance and promotion, which the students give. Suggestions as to the types of programs will be appreciated. Musical talent will be needed.

School chaplain, a new office created by the SFC, will be in charge of the devotions. Lloyd Mann, senior, has been chosen to fill the office. The office was created upon the recommendation of Eddie Boydstun, A. L. Pruett and Roy Harris, delegates to the area student council convention in Amarillo.

Since the devotions will begin before the 8:30 bell and continue into the study period before first period, the students on second floor are requested to remain as quiet as possible.

Attendance at the devotions will not be compulsory; however, everyone is invited to attend.

Engineering, Technical Librarian Interest Forward Looking Seniors

Todays occupations offer a wide range of opportunities to those who graduate from high school and then go in for further training. The highly technical fields, especially, offer great opportunities.

Mike Wheeler, who recently chalked up the highest average in CHS on the Scholarship Qualifying Test given last fall, is a senior with high ambitions. He is hoping to enter aeronautical engineering, one of the fields offering marvelous opportunities to interested young men.

His favorite subjects are math, chemistry and art. His like for these subjects and high computational score indicate opportunities in this field. Tentatively, he plans to attend the University of Arizona.

Mike was born March 17, 1940, in Stillwater, Oklahoma. His father is now a civilian jet engine instructor. Both his parents have received degrees in music. Mrs. Wheeler now operates their motel on the Hereford highway.

Mike has played trombone and now aspires to play the bongo drums. Tennis is his favorite sport, and hot-rods and girls are his hobbies.

Mary Whealy, the only girl in the senior class to have had four years of science, may not have a green thumb, but she does have a knack for growing things — crystals. Mary is cultivating crystals for the regoinal science fair to be held in Amarillo March 21-22. She is doing this research as a foundation for further study.

Mary's favorite subjects are mechanical drawing and chemistry. She, of course, is interested in science in general, but her aspirations for the future turn to another phase of science which is little known. Her plans are to become a technical librarian for a chemical company or oil firm. Such a librarian would have to keep an enormous amount of technical knowledge at her finger-tips to be given to the employees upon their request.

As for college, Mary has chosen either WT or TWU. Mary recently entered the Westinghouse contest for a scholarship.

For a Christmas present, Mary received a trip to Mexico City. She has also traveled in Canada and 23 states.

Mary's father, Dr. R. D. Whealy, is head of the chemistry department at WT.

County Issues Warrant Order

The official order to issue up to 250,000 in warrants for the purchase of right-of-way for the expressway and Highway 60 was passed Monday by the Randall County Commissioners Court. No protesting citizens were present at the meeting.

Under the court's plan, the warrants will be issued as right-of-way is purchased and when the program is completed, the warrants will be refunded into bonds.

Repayment of the bonds will be from the regular road and bridge funds, and no extra tax levy will be made. Only the amount of money actually needed will be raised by issuance of the warrants, the court said.

Fiscal agent for the county in the warrant issuance will be Columbian Securities, represented by Bob Davis.

Area FFA Honors WT Ag Professor

John Shipley, assistant professor of agriculture at West Texas State College, will be honored Feb. 15 by Area VI of the Future Farmers of America.

Shipley will be presented an honorary Lone Star Farmer degree by the organization for his work and interest in the FFA while he was farm director for Texarkana's television station.

Rotary Has First Annual Farmers Day

About 50 Randall County farmers were guests of the Canyon Rotary Club Tuesday, as C. E. Van Doren, director of the Bushland Experiment Station, spoke on grain sorghums and range grasses.

Each guest was presented a pen inscribed with a Rotary emblem and "Farmers Day, January 14, 1958." The program was in charge of Bob Lindsey Jr.

"This was a bad year for hybrid grain sorghums because of climatic conditions," Van Doren said. "With the varied precipitation and the drought conditions in June and July, the sorghums were late in maturing."

It is apparent now, Van Doren said, that there "is a need to develop a better grain seed." The speaker outlined procedures in obtaining hybrid seed and told how the different varieties are obtained.

He concluded with a brief explanation of range grasses and methods of seeding. He said that four main grasses are used in this area: Blue Gramma, Buffalo, Oat Grass.

Visiting Rotarians were Bob Lindsey Sr., of Borger, Guy Carlander and Murl McCasland of Amarillo. Guests included E. T. Cummings and C. B. Farris.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

ANNUAL REPORT FOR RANDALL-POTTER S.C.D. No. 147

The program and plan for this district was completed and returned to the board in June, 1956. The technical services of the Soil Conservation Service were made available to the district at this time. The Soil Conservation Service had helped complete the program and plan before this time. The board started obtaining cooperators in June, 1956, and have continued since that time.

The certificate of organization was received on Nov. 25, 1954.

The supervisors of this district are as follows:

J. W. Spencer, chairman, subdivision 3
C. V. Conatser, vice chairman, subdivision 5
R. C. Sampson Jr., secretary, subdivision 1
Frank Begert, member, subdivision 2
Marshall Rockwell Jr., member, subdivision 4

Regular meetings are held at 7:30 p. m. on the first Tuesday of each month, in the county courthouse.

The board has held 12 regular meetings, with an average attendance of approximately 90%, and 4 called meetings.

The annual report was published in The Canyon News.

The Randall-Potter Soil Conservation District, in conjunction with Southwest Great Plains Experiment Station, sponsored a field day on Oct. 10, 1957. Letters were mailed to all farmers in the district inviting them to attend. There were approximately 40 farmers from the district who attended.

J. W. Spencer and C. V. Conatser met with the Canyon School administrators in discussing the district program and objectives. At the same time the Fort Worth Press Essay contest program was discussed.

In conjunction with the Randall County Junior Livestock Association the district sponsored a grass judging contest at the county show. Awards were given to the top three contestants by the Randall County Junior Livestock Association.

Most of the churches in Canyon observed Soil Stewardship services with an estimated attendance of about 1500 people.

The First National Bank in Canyon has sponsored several ads in the local paper boosting the district and soil and water conservation.

Burrow Lumber Company also used soil and water conservation ads several times during the year, and built the grass board for the district. The grass display board was exhibited at the First National Bank in Canyon, Randall County Farm Bureau office, Randall County Grain Company at Ralph, Co-Op Elevator at Umbarger.

The Canyon News has cooperated in printing a regular weekly news column to help inform the public about the district program and conservation farming. There have been 51 news articles and six ads in soil and water conservation published in The Canyon News during the year.

J. W. Spencer attended the state convention of soil conservation supervisors in Tyler in January. C. V. Conatser attended a Bankers Award Program in Dumas in the spring. Three members of this board attended the Fort Worth Press Award program and barbecue at Hereford in the spring. The district had part of the program at the annual meeting of the stockholders of Consumers Fuel Association.

Supervisor Conatser received the "Outstanding Conservation Farmer" plaque from the Canyon Lions Club on Sept. 11, 1957. The program was devoted entirely to the activities of the district. Four supervisors were present. Four of the board members and their wives attended a social and barbecue at Buffalo Lake on Aug. 16. Also present were invited guests, including SCS technicians, Game Warden and County Agent, and families.

There are about 860 land owners in the district with about 546,460 acres of agricultural land and a total of 606,760 acres. At the present time we have 105 district cooperators with 67,828 acres of land under agreement. This year we obtained 61 agreements, 49 of which were progressive and 12 were basic, covering 44,850 acres. There was one cancellation of 320 acres. Ninety-nine district cooperators were serviced at least once, and some were serviced more than once.

During the year cooperators of this district have completed the following practices on their farms:

	No. of acres
Contour Farming	2,680
Cover Cropping	1,812
Crop Residue Utilization	6,205
Rotation Hay & Pasture	83
Stubble Mulching	3,512
Deferred Grazing	2,325
Fertilizing Aftermath	873
Pasture Planting	20
Proper Use	1,052
Windbreak Planting	1
Diversion Construction	(1 mile)
Surface Irrigation System	670
Improved Water Applic t'n	4,565
Land Leveling	20
Laterals	(8.3 miles)
Ponds	5
Terraces	(17.8 miles)

There is no watershed or flood prevention work in this district.

On Oct. 2, 1957, Carl Spencer, state executive director of the Texas State Soil Conservation Board, presented to the district a check for $14,520, being a State Grant to the district. So far two grass drills have been purchased. T. L. Devin, Vocational Agriculture teacher, and the FFA Chapter, are the custodians for the drills.

The Soil Conservation Service and the State Extension Service are assisting the board, and other agencies have been invited to attend the board meetings. The local Game Warden and Vocational Agriculture teacher have attended meetings this year.

This district is still faced with the problems of management of irrigation water, terrace construction on dry land, and wind erosion. The people need to have a better understanding of Soil Conservation Districts and their purposes.

It is believed that at this time the district has enough technical and educational help.

The ability of landowners to carry out conservation practices is limited, due to lack of funds. A fair crop was produced by most farmers this year. Rainfall was normal this year, for the first time in about five years.

WARREN'S

NEWS LETTER

FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Blackeyed Peas - Hornaday Style

Texas Congressional Members, newspaper people and many personal friends of Walter and Ann Hornaday look forward with great anticipation to Jan. 1 each year. Walter Hornaday is the Washington news correspondent for The Dallas Morning News and has been around Washington for a long time.

He and his lovely wife, Ann, live in an apartment over in Virginia and have a farm some 50 miles from Washington in the Shenandoah Valley. On Jan. 1 the Hornadays entertain the Texas Members of Congress, their newspaper friends and associates to a buffet style black-eyed pea dinner. Ann grows the black-eyed peas down on the farm and does an outstanding job of preparing them.

She serves them with hushpuppies, slaw and ham, with fruit cake for dessert. It is "The" gathering of the year for many of the Texans in Washington. In fact, it is becoming famous as the meeting place of the finest food and finest people — black-eyed peas and Texans.

One of my Yankee friends asked me why people from the South and Southwest thought black-eyed peas tasted better on New Year's Day than at any other time. I advised him it was not the question of them tasting better on that day, because they are good any time, but that they were an especial delicacy on New Year's Day because those partaking of them at that time would experience good luck the rest of the year.

Since then he has become an ardent fan of black-eyed peas, and I think I could sell him on turnip greens if we could work them in with some other superstitution. However, it might be difficult because pepper sauce is an unknown ingredient in these parts, and both turnip greens and black-eyed peas need pepper sauce to bring out their full flavor.

If you want to see any of the Texas Members of Congress, present or past, around the first day of January, just go by the apartment of Walter and Ann Hornaday and if they are not present when you get there, you won't have to wait long.

The Agricultural Picture

Several soft spots in the general economy are causing many people in official Washington to awaken to the fact that the farm difficulties of the past few years might be the cause of this trouble. They are beginning to recognize the real facts of economic life — the farmer is not the villian that he has been painted so many times in the past few years.

Many of these same people who have continually criticized the farmer as the recipient of government subsidy are now beginning to realize that any subsidy received by the farmer from the government is infinitesimal compared with many other segments of the economy. Only recently I was amused at a headline that appeared in a trade paper of an organization representing many big manufacturers.

This organization has continually criticized and lambasted the farmers on the question of subsidy. Yet, it seemed to have no hesitancy in headlining a proposition that the Defense Department was going to earmark billions to be spent on defense contracts and, therefore, many of its members who are engaged in manufacturing could look forward to these government contracts and not be worried about their economic life.

Some of these defense contract activities would make the entire farm program look like ten cents. And it might be pointed out, that if there is anything vitally essential and necessary for the defense of any country, it is a proper and sufficient amount of food and fiber.

The American farmer had an average income in 1956 of less than one-half the average income enjoyed by non-farm workers. Yet the capital investment per agricultural worker was one and one-half times as much as the capital investment required for employees in manufacturing.

Since 1947 the average per hour return to farm workers for labor and management has declined to 78 cents an hour, while during the same period the average wage of industrial workers has increased to $1.98 an hour. Net farm income has declined 31 per cent since 1947, while hourly earnings of industrial workers have increased by 60 per cent, and corporation dividend payments are up 85 per cent.

Farmers make up 13.2 per cent of the total population of this country, yet receive only 6.3 per cent of the national income. Much has been said about the farmer pricing his products too high. Facts and figures just do not support that argument. The truth is, that although retail prices for foods have increased, farm prices have declined. Today the average hourly wage of industrial workers will buy twice as much food as in 1929.

Let us hope that the year 1958 will produce an answer to many of the farm problems that have been so grossly misunderstood. It will do much to stabilize the entire economy and provide a source of the strength that we are going to need for the next decade in the cold war with communism.

One Military Head

There is much talk in official Washington of shifting the power of the Joint Chiefs of Staff over to one individual as a generalissimo over all the Services for the purpose of unification. Congress thought that it had unified the Services several years ago when it set up the Defense Department and created a Secretary of Defense over the Army, Navy and Air Force.

However, it seems that this resulted in nothing more than the creation of another department in addition to the three existing military departments, rather than a reduction of the military establishment from three separate departments to one. This is a problem that needs early attention in this session of Congress and will probably get it.

A January task we always find pleasant is going through last year's engagement book. There are, of course, reminders of good times. But recalling the things we're no longer involved in never fails to cheer us at least for an hour.

Take last February: "Call Mary S." Oh yes, that Y-W publicity committee. Two radio programs to talk people into taking; a couple of news stories to write; a picture to pick up.

"3 p. m. Thursday, L. Jones." That awful speech promise, career opportunities for today's woman. How did we ever get into that!

"Tuesday — J's book review." Ugh! That 40-mile drive with the spouse in the sleet. Anyway we got home without running in a ditch.

April: "J's house guest." The Chicago man the spouse invited to stay with us. Nice fellow; not much trouble. Except the maid was sick, we had to make pies for a bazaar, and the dust blew three days in a row. What a week!

"10 a. m. — nominating committee." Thought we'd never get anybody to take that presidency. Had to promise to do the telephoning, to fill in if she was out of town, and to take a program if she'd only serve. Well, anyhow we got her to agree.

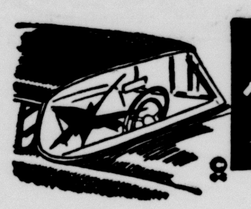

September: Five weddings — how did we ever pay for that many gifts in one month. "Smiths to supper here." Those nice newcomers we waited six months to invite. If all we oldtimers hadn't been so slow with friendliness, they wouldn't have moved away.

Mixed with the committee jobs and other duties, lots of happy times, too; some once-in-a-lifetime, some to look forward to each year.

Now we've started a brand new calendar — a clean slate on which to write chores and pleasures. Some bread-and-potatoes, some dessert.
